under the impression at first that we might be able to use that $31,000. I thought, wow, an interim study that we can have $31,000 to use for our committee? Boy, what we could do with that! Thirty-one thousand dollars in the Health and Human Services Department, however, is a... I call it a pebble in their shoe. Somebody else said it was more like a grain of sand. It is not very big. It is not high on their priority list, apparently, because they're working so very diligently out in the Rotunda, visiting your offices, and calling you out to say how stupid this is and that we should use a million dollars to buy vaccines. Well, I don't know where they get their information that this is going to cost a million dollars because we haven't done the study yet, and if we're going to have an infrastructure for public health in this state, this is the cornerstone of that public health infrastructure. We need to have this registry. We don't have an alternative. There's no way else to do it. Whether to have a registry or not is not the question, even though the Governor says that's the question. I don't agree with that. We have to do something to know where our people are in the immunization. If this were two or three little immunizations...

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: One minute.

SENATOR SUTTLE: Was that "time"?

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: One minute.

SENATOR SUTTLE: Sorry. If we...if we had only two or three little immunizations to keep track of parents could do it. Parents can't even keep track of immunizations nowadays. It is so complicated that you cannot keep track of who has had what, when and where, and revaccination is a very, very bad thing for children, not to mention adults, and adults need to be tracked as well. We have to have this done by 2010. It's going to take us that long to get everything in order and everything lined up so that we can. I'd appreciate your support for an override. Thank you, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: Thank you, Senator Suttle. Senator Chambers, motion to override.
